

Duties and Obligations Of The SCI Chapter Elected Officers & Board of Directors

As an elected officer or director of the SCI Chapter, you have the exhilarating task of leading your Chapter in its ongoing effort to protect, preserve and expand the hunting rights of your fellow hunters as well as preserve the habitat and animals that we hunt. The efforts of the Officers and directors of your Chapter will also favor both the hunting and non-hunting public with exemplary actions that demonstrate our unwavering commitment to the community at large in areas of education and charitable causes.

That commitment is demonstrated through Chapter contributions towards Civic organizations, sponsorship of youth hunting programs as well as outdoor educational activities. That commitment will also be evidenced by contributions towards habitat restoration projects and contributions to the needy and disabled of our own community.

The goal of this guide is to provide a thumbnail outline of the duties and obligations of each officer and of the directors with an eye towards predictability of effort and organization that affords the Chapter the best coordination of talents possible while facilitating efficiency of service. This guide should be viewed as a minimum level of expectation with the obvious knowledge that our members would expect each officer and director to exceed the provisions herein. All officers and directors are expected and encouraged to participate in the various committees and functions of the Chapter, over and above their stated roles as officers. Finally, those who have the honor and privilege of serving on the Board of Directors of the Chapter shall be ever mindful of the admonitions of President Theodore Roosevelt with regard to the role of the public servant, when he states as follows:

“A man who stays in our American political life, if he has in his soul the generous desire to do effective service for great causes, inevitably grows to regard himself merely as one of many instruments, all of which it may be necessary to use, one at one time, one at another, in achieving the triumph of those causes. And whenever the usefulness of any one has been exhausted, it is to be thrown aside. If such a man is wise, he will gladly do the thing that is next, when the time and the need come together, without asking what the future holds for him. Let the half-god play his part well and manfully, and then be content to draw aside when the god appears. Nor should he feel vain regrets that to another it is given to render greater services and reap a greater reward. Let it be enough for him that he too has served, and that by doing well he has prepared the way for the other man who can do better.”
